Two men were out walking one day in sun-kissed California. Suddenly, kissing time being over, it began to rain in torrents and they were miles from the car line. One man laughed, long and loud. The other wept bitterly. "Why do you laugh?" he asked his chuckling companion. "Because I am paying meter rates on water. But why do you weep?" "Because I am paying $10 a day for climate," replied the tourist. "One man's meat is another man's meat bill."

"These people have a plausible and self-righteous excuse for their misdeeds," said Senator Bankhead, apropos of certain hypocritical lawbreakers, in an address in Fayette.

"They remind me, in fact, of a certain parson's domineering wife. The parson said meekly one day: 'My love, you told me before the

The Managers of the Several Headquarters Together With Their Advisers Have Completed Plans For Reception of the Delegates.

Chicago.-The stage setting for the Republican national convention was completed with the opening of La-Follette and Cummins headquarters at notels. Cummins headquarters was established in the same hotel that houses the Taft and the Roosevelt workers. The LaFollette headquarters opened by Alfred T. Rogers, national committeeman from Wisconsin, is situated six blocks from the others.

The managers of the several headquarters together with their advisers and associates completed plans for the reception of delegates who are expected to begin arriving soon. Special committees to handle the delegates have been named and will be on duty from this time until the close of the convention.

A direct appeal will be made to each individual delegate by the campaign manager of each candidate for the nomination, despite instructions or pledges. No possible vote in the convention will be overlooked and any indication among the delegates of shifting sentiment will precipitate a lively scramble among the managers.

A number of prominent Roosevelt leaders declared reports of a possible bolt by Roosevelt delegates, in case the President's friends succeed in nominating Mr. Taft, were without reasonable foundation.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, an active worker for Roosevelt, in the sessions of the Republican national committee, said: "No bolt for me. I have not even

> LESSON FOR JUNE 23 THE PENITENT WOMAN.

LESSON TEXT-Luke 7:36-50. GOLDEN TEXT-"Faithful is the say-Ing and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."—1 Tim. 1:15.

Jesus had accepted an invitation to visit the home of the aristocrat Simon, but instead of being treated with courtesy he is humiliated by studied neglect and insult. There was one, however, who fully appreciated his real worth, a woman of the street who had doubtless seen him enter or else ly killed. Mr. Wickliffe had been in observed him at meat through the the habit of taking long walks daily open doorway. Knowing him is one thing, but to love him is quite another. Do not confound this woman with Mary Magdalene, there is no connection at all. Jesus always drew to himself the sinful ones: it was for that purpose he came into the world, to bear our sins (Matt. 1:21; Isa 53:6). This woman was, however, a sinner who no longer ran after her sin, but one who was repentant. This is shown by (1) her sorrow (weeping); (2) her humble service (wiping his feet), and (3) her gift of love (the alabaster box), this latter having undoubtedly been an accessory of her life of sin, but now devoted to a more noble use. As the odor filled the house the self-satisfied Pharisee spake 'within himself." but he who discerneth the thoughts and intents of the heart knew not only how great a sinner she had been, but knew also the cloak of self-righteousnes worn by Simon. Her purity and holiness had been shattered like the alabaster box | to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Jesus proceeds to shatter Simon's railroad bridge over the entrance to shell of self complacency by putting forth one of his matchless parables.

Jesus Speaks to Simon. A certain creditor, undoubtedly meaning himself, had two debtors, by inference this woman and this Pharisee. Both alike were bankrupt, one owed about $8.50 and the other ten times as much, about $85. Both alike, however, received forgiveness. "Tell me," says the Master, "which debtor will love most?" The Pharisee's reply was the logical one; they both depend upon the mercy of the creditor, hence the gratitude will be in ratio to the amount forgiven. Much had been required, hence much forgiven. Jesus immediately turns the Pharisee's answer to a practical application. Taking the words out of Simon's mouth he makes one of the most complete and practical applications of applied Christianity in the gospel record. To paraphrase Jesus says: "Simon, I came into your house and the most common courtesy of washing a guest's feet you neglected, yet this woman has washed my feet with her tears, an evidence of her repentance, while you sit there with dryeved cynicism. She has wiped my feet with the hairs of her head, her glory and crown has been laid at my feet while you have not so much offered me a towel to wipe the dust off my feet as I left my sandals at your door. Simon you gave me no kiss, that common mark of a courteous welcome, yet this woman has not ceased to kiss my feet since the time I came into your house. The annointing oil, common olive oil, you neglected to use, yet the precious oil of her treasure she has thankfully poured upon my feet. Simon, your life is a life of works so are these acts of this this is an old sinner you have got hold woman, but your life is one of zeal lef work, was instructed to send an while her acts have been prompted

In another place Jesus tells us that if we love him we will do the things he commands us and that he and the Father will come and abide with us. Hers was the heroic love of one who herself into an unbidden house of reed menial duties, the result of which was that reward for her faith that used to sit on the deck rail and lean meant forgiveness of her sins. By against it! We were sitting one night her attention to these duties she was as usual, with our backs to the fog. unconsciously rebuking the vanity of when suddenly the fog lifted, and we Simon's self merit while at the same all went flop into the sea. Paul later expressed it most forcefully in the fourth chapter | Nature's Remedy: is purely vegetable. of his letter to the Romans. The man who works has not a reward of grace, justified, his faith being counted for righteousness.

The Great Creditor.

This woman knew she had no merit of her own and hence she threw herself at the feet of Jesus, claimed his righteousness and compassion and at the same time by her acts she showed the attitude of her heart and of course she had the desire of her heart. It has always been so for has not the Master said, "Happy are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be fed?"

After this "practical sermon of applied Christianity" to Simon, Jesus turns to the woman, nameless so far as the Scripture record is concerned and with infinite and a heavenly thrill in his voice he said: "Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace." "Who is the creator," they asked.

Jesus teaches us that though there be degrees of guilt, all alike must come to God for forgiveness. Also that he, the Great Creator, is the one to whom we owe our debt of sins and who alone can without merit discharge that debt and send us forth in

This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature, so to speak, is ransacked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has in deed made giant strides during the past century, and among the—by no means least important—discoveries in medicine comes that of Therapion, which has, we understand, been used with great success in the French Hospitals and that it is worthy the attention of those who suffer from kidney, bladder or nervous diseases, chronic weaknesses, nicers, skin eruptions, piles, &c., we think there is no doubt. In fact it seems evident from the big stir created amongst specialists, that THERAPION is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. It is of course impossible to tell sufferers all we should like to tell them in this short article, but those who are interested and would like to know more about this remedy that has effected so many—we might almost say—miraculous cures, have only to send addressed envelope for FREE book to P.
